WOODROW WILSON FOR PRESIDENT

The New York World Favors New Jersey Man and Gives its Reason Why.

In a recent issue the New York World declared itself as favoring Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic nominee for president. In a two column editorial, in support of its position, among other things the World said :

How can the Democratic party do its duty better than to match sanity against lunancy; statesmanship against demagogy; the historian against the Rough Rider; the educator of public opinion against the debaucher of public opinion; the first term against the third term; the tariff-reformer against the standpatter; the man who would prosecute trust magnates against the man who protects trust magnates; the man with clean hands against the man who draws his campaign fund from Wall street; the supporter of constitutional government against the champion of personal government; law against lawlessness; Americanism against Mexicanism; the Republic against the dictatorship ?

Woodrow Wilson has proved his political courage and his fearlessness. He has proved himself sound on tariff reform. He has proved himself sound on the Sherman law. He has proved himself sound on corporation control. He has proved himself sound on trust prosecutions and personal guilt. He has proved himself sound against government by Wall street plutocracy. He has proved himself sound on the independence of the judiciary. He has proved himself sound on the fundamental principles of constitutional government. He has proved that he is instinctively and temperamentally a Democrat. He has proved himself a free man who cannot be bulldozed by bosses or influenced against his convictions even by his personal friends. That is the sort of a man who ought to be President.

Governor Wilson has had more public experience than Grover Cleveland had when he was elected President. He is better known to the rank and file of the party than Samuel J. Tilden was when he was nominated for President. The World believes that he would be a progressive constitutional President whom the American people could trust and for whom they would never have cause to apologize.

The farmers are so busy with their belated farming that many of them may fail to note that on Wednesday of last week the Republican stand-patters in the Senate voted down an amendment to Metal Tariff bill placing farming implements on the free list. When a little later on the protective orators are busy in their usual game of pulling the wool over the eyes of Granger auditors they will have nothing to say about tightening the tariff screws by keeping the forty-five per cent. tax on implements for the benefit of the Harvester Trust, whose president is financing the Roosevelt campaign.

The tax collector for the city of Lock Haven has the right idea. Instead of asking the school board to exonerate, which privilege the school board does not have, the collector of taxes had fifteen warrants issued for the arrest of delinquents. One man was sent to jail until he arranged to meet the amount of his tax, costs, and the price of his board in jail. This is the course all tax collectors should take. The school board heretofore has exonerated a lot of lazy chumps in Centre Hall that under the new school code can be made pay up, and they ought to do so.

The many "clean-up" days the neighboring towns have had makes one feel happy to live in Centre Hall where every day is "clean-up" day. It is far better not to let filth accumulate, but the towns that let their streets and alleys become the dumping places for refuse for nine months in the year can greatly improve sanitary conditions by appointing "clean-up" days, even though it reflects on their tidiness.

These columns are open to any citizen who wishes to use them in support or in opposition to the granting of a franchise for electric light and power. The writer defies any of the councilmen or any one else to produce a ten sentence argument in favor of the proposition that will not be as full of holes as Malone's reservoir built of mud and stones under a contract on which Malone's signature was not missed until he asked for settlement.

Fifty years from now our successors will be better able to pass judgment upon present controversies than we are. But the republic will endure.

Memorial Day Services.

Memorial Day was observed at Centre Hall in the customary way. The hour for the services was six o'clock in the evening. The procession was formed at the United Evangelical church, and was headed by the Coleville band. The children followed, and then came the few remaining veterans of the Civil War, their daughters, and the Knights of the Golden Eagles. On reaching the cemetery, and while the band played suitable music, the children decorated the graves of the departed comrades.

From the cemetery the march led to the Methodist church, where the exercises were completed. Former Sheriff Brungart was the chairman, and Prof. P. H. Meyer had charge of the music. A choir sang several selections, and Rev. S. A. Snyder offered prayer, and the Rev. R. Raymond Jones began his address. The audience listened intently to the speaker whose line of talk was entirely different from that usually heard from the platform on Memorial Day, but his words were not inappropriate.

At the close of the address, the choir again sang, and the chairman thanked those who interested themselves to make the program a success, and then the benediction was pronounced by Dr. W. H. Schuyler.

The graves of the two Revolutionary soldiers in Indian Lane, east of Old Fort, were decorated by the Reporter force. A Revolutionary flag was unfurled, and several elaborate boquets placed at the foot of the marker. Mrs. Lillie Alexander and John Slack made contributions to the flowers that bedecked the graves.

At Sprucetown Dr. W. H. Schuyler was the speaker. The attendance was quite large, as the interest in memorial services are widespread in that community. Many favorable comments were made on the speaker's address, and the services as a whole were impressive and truly characteristic of the day.

LOCALS.

The Fairbrook Country Club had its formal summer opening at its Club house at Pennsylvania Furnace, on Tuesday.

Two prisoners took leave of the Lock Haven jail on Saturday evening. They escaped by picking a lock leading from the jail yard to an alley.

Robert Hunter, agent for John Eby, of Zion, was over the farm occupied by Bigler Shaffer, near Centre Hall, with Josiah C. Rossman, who is a prospective buyer. The Eby farm is a very desirable one.

The Reporter was all mistaken when it announced that the council would meet last Friday night. The regular time of the body's meeting is the first Friday instead of the last Friday in each month.

Self-esteem is a trait no human being should be entirely without. But we should pray to be delivered from that measure of self-esteem which holds that nothing is true save what has received our approval.

Edward L. Bartholomew was in town on Memorial day. It was his first day from home since the little daughter was born in the Bartholomew home, and he was very anxious to get back to Altoona to see the baby that is already putting meanings into the "goo-goos."

R. P. Campbell is endeavoring to improve the large farm he and his brother own in connection with Penns Cave, and thinks the use of lime will aid him greatly in solving the problem. He just completed hauling to the farm a car load of coal which will be used in burning the lime.

Juniata, a suburb of Altoona, has made a step in the direction of better schools, and by an action of the board of school directors is now a third instead of a fourth class school district. This will permit the borough to elect its own superintendent and give it many privileges not enjoyed by districts of a lower class.

Mrs. Charles Kuhn, of near Boalsburg, met with quite a misfortune one day last week. She was preparing for a festival, and was in need of a stick of wood to put under a vessel of some kind, and in an effort to split a small board with an axe, the tool glanced and struck her foot, almost severing the great toe. It required several stitches in the dressing of the wound.

In some sections of the county the early planted corn failed to make a stand and replanting was done. The same condition seems to have prevailed in other counties in the state. In this section of Penns Valley the planting was all done after the 20th of May, and much of it the week following, and some in June. It is too early to note whether there was perfect germination of the seed, but usually late planting results in obtaining a good set of plants.

THE FRANCHISE QUESTION.

May Come Before Council in Modified Form—Action in Advance of Necessity.

It is admitted now by all that it would have been a mistake to have granted a free and perpetual franchise in Centre Hall to the Centre Hall Electric Light and Power Company, but some of these advocates are mighty sorry they were defeated in putting through the council this vicious piece of legislation. These are berating the Reporter and its editor, and are finding satisfaction in doing so. They have no thought of taking care of the property owners in Centre Hall. They were willing to sacrifice every one's interest for the sole purpose of carying their point; they were bent on giving this foreign corporation everything it asked, and just in the manner that it was asked, regardless of consequences to future generations. They were thwarted in their purpose by turning their ordinance to the light. Wicked and vicious as was this measure, it would have been fastened on the taxpayers of Centre Hall forever, but for the protest of the citizens. It was not the foresight of the council, nor the relinquishment of the few citizen-advocates of the measure that put a quietus on the free, perpetual, and, in action, an exclusive franchise, but it was the uprising of the people. It was the first time in all the history of this borough that the people were awake to their interests and opposed the council. They slept through all the blunders while building the water plant, and paid many thousands of dollars on account of it, but their alertness at this time saved the generations to come untold burdens.

From the information now at hand, it is the intention of the council to have formulated a new ordinance on the question of electric light and power. The franchise in this ordinance is to cover a limited number of years, and it is to have other desirable restrictions. It may be such a measure as will be safe to adopt, assuming that this is the proper time to pass an ordinance on the question, and it may be just as wicked in effect as the ordinance presented some time ago. Its merits cannot be discussed until the measure is formulated. In the meantime it might be well to ascertain who constitutes the Centre Hall Electric Light and Power Company. To some it might appear to be of no consequence who this company is, but it is of vital importance when one considers that it attempted to commit an outrage on the tax paying citizens of this borough.

Advocates, and especially the councilmen, of the ordinance now stamped by all as iniquitous, say in their argument that the Reporter is opposed to any measure that will give citizens in Centre Hall an opportunity to have electric light. This is false. The Reporter is progressive, but it is not in favor of enslaving forever the taxpaying citizens of this town; it is not willing to fasten on the people forever conditions that will become burdensome just to beat an individual, and no councilman should use his potion and the borough's recourses in the shape of taxers to beat anyone. The councilmen who couldn't see the snake in the former ordinance until it was killed and hung before them, are not apt to see the snake that may appear in the proposed ordinance until it bites them. If it were only the councilmen who would be bitten the lesson might be worth the cost, but the corporation serpent sinks it fangs into every taxable dollar within the borough limits, and that is why a franchise ordinance should be minutely examined and every snake in its killed, if it is to become a borough law.

Don't be spiteful, Mr. Councilman. Favor or oppose measures on their merits, not because you like or dislike some one who may favor or oppose them.

Can Roosevelt Be Defeated?

In his Commoner Col. Bryan forecasts that Roosevelt will be nominated for president in either a rump or a regular convention, and then says :

Can Roosevelt be defeated ? Yes, by any good progressive. A progressive will hold the Democratic vote, and the Republicans who oppose a third term will do the rest. Mr. Clark and Mr. Wilson are the leading progressive candidates—either one of them can defeat Roosevelt. The country will never have a president for a third term.

Draft Colts For Sale.

The Pennsylvania State College will dispose of four two-year-old draft colts weighing from 1350 to 1450 pounds between now and June 25, 1912. One of these colts is a pure-bred and registered Percheron stallion sufficiently matured to do a small amount of service this year. The others are high grades. For further information address C. L. Goodling, State College, Pa. 6.24.

NEW FEATURE FOR GRANGE FAIR.

Public Demonstration Will be Given in Orchard West of Grange Park.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Division of Zoology

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 31.

HON. LEONARD RHONE,
Centre Hall, Pa.

My Dear Brother Rhone :

My inspector and demonstrator, Mr. T. C. Foster, of Lewisburg, who is assigned to your district, informs me that you are willing to make a schedule for your next annual picnic providing for an afternoon, or part of an afternoon, in practical demonstration work in the orchard of Editor S. W. Smith. I regard this as an opportunity to do something unusual for our good friends in your vicinity, and shall be pleased to cooperate with you in full in this regard. If you will let me know if this meets with your approval, and you can fix the afternoon for it, I shall arrange to be present with pruning and spraying apparatus and give practical demonstrations, and speak on the operations in orchard work in accordance with the different seasons of the year, and demonstrate such as are necessary at that season. If you should not see fit to arrange for such an afternoon you need not hesitate to be frank in so informing me.

Very truly yours,
H. A. SURFACE.
Economic Zoologist.

Mr. Rhone, the manager of the picnic association, has expressed himself as well pleased with the suggestion made by Dr. Surface, and will arrange for a place on the program for such a meeting. The idea is a very good one, and will give many an opportunity to witness demonstrations that cannot be given in every locality. The details of this meeting will be announced later.

LOCALS.

Mrs. T. H. Group, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, is at the home of J. William Mitterling, her cousin, in Centre Hall.

Ralph R. Hauck, an experienced hotel man, has purchased the Decker house in Mifflinburg, from William Spotts, and will take charge of the place at once.

No one dealer can show you a larger variety of cultivators than we can. Inspect our machines before you make your purchase.—J. H. & S. E. Weber, Centre Hall and Oak Hall Station.

C. D. Bartholomew enlarged the dwelling house occupied by Earl Lutz, who has charge of the Bartholomew poultry farm at the station. The dwelling house is located on the street opened by Mr. Bartholomew.

George S. Weaver, of Spring Mills, was one of the Reporter's callers last week. Mr. Weaver is a farmer and was delighted because of the fact that a brisk shower visited his section, and aided in germinating the corn.

Dr. McCluney Radcliffe, the eye and ear specialist, has removed his office in Philadelphia to 1906 Chestnut street. The doctor is well known in Centre Hall on account of his prominent connection with the Wills Eye and Ear Hospital in his city.

R. D. Foreman, grain and coal dealer, of Centre Hall, last week purchased a five passenger Buick car, and now he and Mrs. Foreman are studying just how to handle it to the best advantage. It is a very handsome car, and is the only one of its kind in town.

It is the intention of Clement Luse to erect a dwelling house on Hoffer street. The stable on the lot is now under construction. The site is just below the property of John Lucas. Mr. Luse has gotten into the habit of building in Centre Hall, and he just can't quit it.

Rev. F. W. Barry filled his appointments on the Lutheran charge on Sunday, and on Monday again returned to Selinsgrove to be with his father who is ill. The Barry family moved from Hartleton to Selinsgrove, the elder Rev. Barry having resigned the pastorate of the Hartleton charge on account of physical weakness.

Harvey Rote, of near Penns Cave, was one of the Reporter's callers on Monday, having come here to meet the representatives of the Jacob Detwiler estate, and before Justice W. B. Mingle the transfer of the Detwiler farm in Gregg township was legally made to Mr. Rote, who purchased it some months ago.

James L. P. Gregg, of Tyrone, was in Centre Hall on Tuesday to interview the school board in the interest of a book firm he represents. Mr. Gregg is one of Tyrone's school teachers and is also a member of the council. M. F. Pletcher, of Howard, also a school book man, was in town on the same day, and like Mr. Gregg, was disappointed on having misunderstood the time of the board's meeting.

Fire on State Forest Lands.

Saturday about one o'clock fire broke out on the state forest lands on Nittany Mountain, at a point designated as the "little field," about one mile east of Forester Mueller's residence in Greens Valley. The forester assisted by Miss Edith Hoover, who is a member of his family, and Messrs. Samuel Burris, Wallace O., Elmer L. and George L. Horner, and Harry Knoffsinger put forth their best efforts to extinguish the flames, and when the rain came on Sunday they had it well surrounded. The fire spread eastward for about one mile.

Just how the fire orginated is not known, but a half hour before the smoke was seen a tourist passed through the mountains, and it is presumed that he was the cause of it—perhaps unintentionally and perhaps otherwise. When the men were at work fighting the flames a second stranger appeared on the scene. When questioned he said he had been at the "dam." Forester Mueller wanted to draft him for service, but he took the first opportunity to slip away from the busy workers.

Farmer's Day at State.

Wednesday, 19th inst., is Farmer's Day at Pennsylvania State College, and the farmers of Centre county are invited to make their usual visit to the School of Agriculture and Experiment Station on that day. The College has 850 acres under cultivation. Some of the experiments extend over a period of thirty-one years.

T. R. Will Lose in November.

From Altoona Tribune, Republican.

Unless the Republican leaders can reconcile their differences the party will lose the presidency in November and probably congress. And since the policies the contending factions advocate are utterly irreconcilable it is not easy to see how they are going to unite.

Rebersburg.

This section of country is greatly in need of rain.

Mrs. Frank Wate is just recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Wilson Cole is at present employed in Bellefonte at his trade that of ironing carriages.

Mrs. Fulmer is still confined to her bed, but is slowly recovering from a severe spell of sickness.

William Minnich and daughter Mary, of Aaronsburg, spent last Sunday in this place at the home of Lester Minnich.

T. M. Gramley and family, of Spring Mills, autoed to this place on Decoration day and took in the sights of old Rebersburg.

Mrs. Thomas Brungart and daughter Elda left on Monday for Illinois, where they will visit Mrs. Brungart's brother and other relatives.

S. D. Gettig, Esq., of Bellefonte, was the orator here on Memorial day. The attendance was quite large, people coming from the country and surrounding villages. The exercises were greatly enjoyed by all.

On last Sunday while Mrs. G. P. Garret and Mrs. Milfred Garret were driving along the public road leading from this place to Wolfs Store, the horse became frightened at a stone pile and ran away. Mrs. G. P. Garret was thrown out of the buggy and received painful bruises, while Mrs. Milfred Garret escaped unhurt.

It is now well known that not more than one case of rheumatism in ten requires any internal treatment whatever. All that is needed is a free application of Chamberlain's Liniment and massaging the parts at each application. Try it and see how quickly it will relieve the pain and soreness. Sold by all dealers.

The date for the Grove family reunion is Wednesday, June 19th, and the fair grounds, Bellefonte, the place.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

The first day of June was a beautiful one.

Commencement at Pennsylvania State College begins Friday.

The state highway department is building a road between Lewisburg and Mifflinburg.

Timothy is not making too much of a growth, but it has a month in which to develop, and when haying comes it may be long enough.

Hon. Henry W. Shoemaker, of New York City, writer and business man, was recently made a member of the Fair Brook Country Club, at Pennsylvania Furnace.

State College will pe obliged to get along with its present school buildings. The citizens have twice refused to sanction a loan, the first time for $30,000, and the last time for $18,000.

Prof. and Mrs. J. D. Smithgall and children returned to Centre Hall on Monday, after absence of several weeks. They came here from Montoursville where Mr. Smithgall's parents live.

The festival held in Grange Arcadia on the evening of Memorial Day was largely attended. The order of Patrons of Husbandry no doubt secured a neat sum to add to the fund to cancel its bonded indebtedness.

Bert Taylor, the Bellefonte contractor, got a contract to build about four miles of road near Slaysville, Washington county, for $98,336. There are several bridges to be built of concrete, which accounts for the price being so high.

A Christian Endeavor county convention will meet in Centre Hall on Wednesday and Thursday, 19th and 20th instant, and on the Thursday and Friday, 20th and 21st, the Epworth League of the Altoona district will meet at State College.

Miss Helen Bartholomew is becoming quite an expert in handling her Ford car. She not only manipulates the steering, but she is studying the mechanism in detail, so that she will be able to administer the right potion when the beast becomes sick on the road.

Byron Garis erected a large chimney at the W. B. Mingle residence. Mr. Mingle intends installing a heating plant, and has selected one of the latest systems. Hot water and steam are combined in this system, yet but one set of pipes are used, or just one-half the piping necessary in the old hot water system.

Mrs. Charles Pennington, of State College, came to Centre Hall on Saturday and was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Charles D. Bartholomew, and brother, William J. Smith, until Sunday evening, when her husband came for her and the baby that accompanied the young mother. Mr. Pennington is engaged in the baking business, being a partner in the firm.

The Grange Edcampment Committee is making arrangements with the Division of Zoology of the Agricultural Department of the state to hold a public meeting in the orchard owned by the writer immediately west of Grange Park during the encampment and fair. The character of the demonstrations has not yet been settled upon, but due announcement will be made in ample time.

D. C. Bohn and son Carl, of near Linden Hall, were in town last week. It is three months since the boy was shot in the leg while serenading, a gun having been discharged accidentally by a companion serenader, and this is the first time he has been away from home since then. He is now just beginning to learn to walk with the aid of crutches, and is in good spirits, and full of hope that his limb will again give him good service.

Sheriff A. B. Lee was in Penns Valley on Monday, and on his return stopped for a few minutes with the Reporter. The Sheriff takes great pride in the jail surroundings, and has the lawn between the court house and Fort Lee in fine condition, and has added several flower beds so that the county bastile will look more home like. He finds time for this in addition to taking care of his new Ford runabout that is giving him the best of service.

To properly prepare ten acres to be sown to alfalfa in August, Harry Neff, the Reporter's farm manager, and several others with teams and wagons, on Monday hauled a car load of White Rock lime from Centre Hall station. The field was first checked into squares of one rod and one third of a bushel of lime was dumped in the centre of each, making the application at the rate of fifty bushels of stone lime to the acre. The field will be kept perfectly clean of grass and weeds until the first week in August, when the seed will be sown.

WALKING ARIGHT.

There is a way in which every creature should walk. The right way. It should be the chosen way—the preferred way. There should be a longing for this way and a seeking after it and it is the way in which each life should be found. There is such a way and it was the life plan for each of us. Look at nature. Everything from the most minute atom as well as the vast ocean has its course marked out—the way before it. Nothing left to chance, says the Charlotte Observer. No haphazard in nature. Did God intend that man—the greatest result of his creative genius—should be left without definite course? Surely not. Many lives already have told the same story—from them we learn the lesson. Their lives were ordered by the Creator and they met the requirement. No greater joy could be experienced, than that of knowing that we are walking in the way in which God would have us walk. All of the difficulties and sorrows of life can be borne if we know that we are in the right way. It is not always easy to discover the right way. In fact, it is easier to do right than to know what is right. Many perplexing problems beset the man or woman who is endeavoring to discover the right in life. Self-will often perverts one's judgment. It is not always wise to depend on others. The popular idea is not always the right way. The voice of the people is not every time the voice of God. It is oftentimes necessary to stand alone if one would stand for the right.

A young laundry girl addressing the Twilight club upon the conditions under which her comrades live and work said: "Sometimes college girls work in the shops for a couple of weeks, and then go back and report that it is all nonsense for working girls to say they can't get along on the wages they get. But it is a different thing to get along on $4 a week when you know you can quit at any time." In the truth of that saying lies the chasm that separates the well-to-do from the very poor. By most men and women of means every effort to assist or even to understand the problems of the poor is made under an impulse of sentiment, says the New York World. But to the poor themselves the problem is one of dire struggle for existence, including in its scope the life not only of the body, but of the brain and the soul. A working girl no more than a millionaire's daughter can live by bread alone. The fragrance of white hyacinths smells as sweet in the slums as on the mountain heights of fortune. Why should the worker of the slums be judged solely by economic tests?

The smallest republic in the world without contradiction is that of Tavolara, a little island situated about a dozen kilometers (seven and a half miles) from Sardinia. It is a little more than a mile in length, and has a population of 55. The sovereignty of the island was accorded in 1836 by King Charles Albert to the Bartoleoni family. Up to 1882 Paul I. reigned peaceable over his little island kingdom, but at his death the islanders proclaimed a republic, says the London Globe. By the constitution of the republic the president is elected for ten years and women exercise the franchise.

A Paris soothsayer announces that Prince Victor Napoleon is going to be acclaimed president of the French republic, after which he will declare himself emperor, this to be followed by an era of great prosperity for France. Now, if she had been satisfied to announce a future cabinet crisis for France she might have been sure that her prediction would have come true. Some soothsayers are very shortsighted in their soothsaying.

Common sense applauds the French for numbering the hours consecutively from 1 to 24. It would sound a little odd at first to speak of "19 o'clock," and so on, but we should soon get used to it and then the convenience would begin to emerge. Another beneficial change would be to make the months of equal length and have them begin and end invariably on the same day of the week, says the Portland Oregonian. This is practicable and some time it will be done.

It does not require any official forecasts or any expert knowledge to be assured in advance that this is going to be a hot summer. Nor is it any secret that the highest temperatures of the season will be recorded at Chicago and Baltimore.

An American recently attracted attention by throwing money away in the streets of London. He must have been a lazy person who did not wish to have to undergo the trouble of passing it around in tips.

CONCRETE TRAP FOR GRAFTERS

Detective Burns' Clever Scheme at Atlantic City.

FOUR COUNCILMEN CONFESS

Says It Was Generally Understood That Councilmen Who Served Without Pay Must "Get Theirs" Out Of the Contracts.

Atlantic City.—One city councilman is under heavy bail to answer to the Grand Jury, four others have signed written confessions and are in momentary apprehension of prison incarceration, another quartet is developing bad cases of "nerves," with knowledge that their complicity in certain deals is known, and 38 other city and county officials, of more or less importance are quailing in their boots, as the result of the first day's exposures made by William J. Burns, the famous detective, head of an investigation into the gigantic grait deals in municipal affairs here.

The bombshell exploded Friday terminates one of the most delicately handled "plants" recorded in the history of crime. Its fruition came after 13 months of careful molding, and its result, reformers backing the probe declare, will only arrive when 47 men start prison terms.

The great American resort is astounded, stung to the quick, that such monumental debauchery should fix its thieving talons in its governmental machinery, filching, it appears, thousands and thousands of dollars from contract awards and petty pickings here and there. Consternation reigns in the famed Kuehule "ring."

The men so far named as being involved in the exposure are Councilmen Samuel Phoebus, Gus Kessler, William Malia, James Lane and Harry Dougherty.

A Favorite Game.

Contract juggling had long been a favorite game with the bold politicians, but other investigations had proved farces, even when backed by the state legislature.

Atlantic City had grown up from a small seashore village to be recognized as the greatest watering place in the world. The rich opportunities for grafting were so numerous that the men who had controlled things in the comparatively youthful days of the city had become intoxicated with their power and the plundering was growing bolder as the town grew.

Burns looked things over. He searched for a man with political strength, yet poor in worldly goods through recent circumstances. Samuel Phoebus, councilman from the Second ward, filled the bill. One time a leader in the Beach front hotel world, a good mixer and accustomed to the best of living. Phoebus had been reduced to poor circumstances through unfortunate investments. He headed the boardwalk committee of the resort's governing body. The master mind of the country's foremost investigator evolved a clever scheme that would enable him to inveigle Phoebus into a position where he would relate what he knew of the inner workings of the councilmanic ring and explain just how men who went into office comparatively poor came out with a bankroll that put them on "easy street."

EX-MAYOR GUILTY OF ARSON.

Minnesota Supreme Court Finds No Excusing Feature.

St. Paul, Minn.—Dr. D. F. Dumas, former mayor of Cass Lake, Minn., who, it was charged, planned the blowing up of the postoffice safe at Puposky the night of June 16, 1911, and aided criminals in the act, is guilty of attempting arson in the third degree, and his conviction in the District Court of Beltrami county was warranted. The penalty is imprisonment not to exceed three and one-half years. This is the decision of the State Supreme Court. Not one excusing feature in the movement of the Cass Lake mayor is contained in the opinion of the court.

BOAT WITH 13 PERSONS UPSETS.

Six Of Party Drowned While Crossing a Canadian Lake.

Chenneville, Quebec.—A squall overturned a boat in which 13 persons were crossing Lac Le Grand Poisson Blanc, near this town and six members of the party were drowned. The victims were Hilliare Hayment, Miss Albine Levert, Mr. and Mrs. William Dubien and their daughters, aged 1 and 3 years.

Kills Children; Then Self.

Anniston, Ala.—After taking his two children, Evelyn, 6 years old, and Knox, 4 years old, to a lonely spot near his home at Choccolocco, near this place, Whitt Scarborough, a well-to-do planter, administered to each a doze of carbolic acid in soothing syrup. When he was sure they were dead he also swallowed a large doze of the mixture. Scarborough left a note stating that his act was the result of despondency over his wife's death eight months ago.

FOREIGN PROPERTY TO BE PROTECTED

A Destructive Guerilla Warfare is Expected.

TRYING A NEW SCHEME

The Government Also Dividing Up Its Forces Into Small Units To Protect Foreign Properties.

Washington.—Desultory and destructive guerilla warfare is expected to follow the mobilization of Cuban government troops in Guantanamo, where the negro revolt is strongest, according to meager advices received at the State Department.

American consular officers in the disaffected district expressed the opinion that the evident determination of the rebels to avoid a pitched battle would force an extended campaign before the government troops can accomplish definite results. The dispatches, while showing the situation unchanged, indicate that serious damage to foreign property may be expected. The insurrectos are reported to have broken up into small, rapidly moving bands, conducting raids of destruction.

Guarding Foreign Properties.

The situation is beginning to resemble the condition that existed in Mexico in the early stages of the revolution, in that the criminal characters who are found in every community are beginning to take advantage of the disturbed conditions for organized robbery and plunder. As for the real rebels the government military leaders appear to have reached the conclusion that they will not stand for a regular pitched battle. Therefore, the government leaders, instead of attempting to surround the rebels, are dividing their forces into small units to guard foreign properties.

Naval advices from the commander of the gunboat Nashville, which made a record-breaking run from the south to the north coast of Cuba in answer to an alarm from the rich American-owned plantations in the vicinity of Nipe Bay, confirmed the press report as to existing quiet in that quarter.

Trying a Scheme.

A naval officer who has had much experience in Cuban methods expressed the belief that the Cuban insurrectoes were now meditating forcing a clash with the American marines near Guantanamo. Of course, they could not expect to prevail in a battle, but their purpose might be served by inducing the American marine or naval officers to accept their surrender, so that they might not be forced to yield to the Cuban government forces and be tried for treason and perhaps summarily executed. The suggestion has been announced to make the authorities even more determined than before to do nothing that might be construed as a recognition of belligerency of the rebels. The State Department was notified by Minister Beaupre, at Havana, that 40 rural guardsmen have been detailed to guard the works of the Spanish-American Iron Company at Daiquiri. This guard, the State Department is informed, will be maintained as long as the negro rebels continue to be a menace to American interests in Cuba.

BRUTALITIES BY ZAPATIST REBELS

Inhabitants of Tres Marias Cast Into Fires.

ONLY ONE CHILD SAVED

Houses All Torn Down—Younger Women Spared, But Compelled To Follow Rebel Band.

Mexico City.—Stories of inconceivable brutalities practiced by the Zapata insurrectos in the State of Morlelos, which include the burning of men and women at the stake and the hurling of babies into blazing bonfires, were brought here by a survivor of a massacre at Tres Marias. This town, situated 40 miles from here, was sacked and burned by 2,000 rebels under Zapata, where 200 federal soldiers had resisted the brigand horde. Emiliano Zapata and his brother, Eufemia Zapata, led the attack in person. One hundred and eight of the 200 government soldiers were killed by the rebels and their bodies burned.

After the battle the rebels marched into Tres Marias and seized all the men and women, binding their hands with barbed wire. After a council of the bandit chiefs some of the younger women were liberated and compelled to follow the rebel band. The others were lined up and great bonfires lighted. Bodies of the dead federal soldiers were piled upon the faggots and the torch applied.

Other soldiers were put to work tearing down the frame buildings of the town. A great bonfire was built by a detachment of soldiers, who seized the bound townsfolk and cast them upon the embers. Shrieks of the women mingled with the terrified groans and curses of the men.

But the most hideous scenes were to come. The rebels seized little children and threw their bodies into the blaze before their parents' eyes. One child, a boy of three years, who had hidden himself in the brush, alone escaped the massacre. He was brought to this city, where he is now being cared for.

All the frame buildings of the town were burned and the sole stone structure was dynamited.

THE DRUG EVIL.

President Taft Sends a Special Message To Congress.

Washington.—Immediate legislation to prevent the promiscuous use of habit-forming drugs was urged by President Taft in a message transmitted to Congress. The message was accompanied by a report from Secretary of State Knox declaring that unless speedy action is taken on measures now pending in Congress "the American government may be justly accused of being half hearted in its effort to mitigate or suppress the opium and allied evils."

The President asserted he would not ask the Senate to ratify the convention adopted by the recent International Opium Conference until the Netherlands government had secured the signatures of 34 additional countries to the convention. The signatures will be secured, it is expected, by the end of the present year.

No Trust Decisions Given.

Washington.—None of the anti-trust or interstate commerce cases of note were decided Monday by the Supreme Court.

Chicago.—Five oil paintings of a total value of $50,000 have been stolen from the Prairie avenue home of Mrs. Charles P. Kellogg. The paintings were taken during Mrs. Kellogg's absence in Florida. Descriptions of the paintings were mailed to every art center in the world by a detective agency.

AIRMAN WILBUR WRIGHT DEAD

Made Brave but Futile Fight Against Typhoid.

BROTHER WITH HIM AT END

Was Always the Plain, Democratic, Modest American, Though Overwhelmed With Foreign Honors and Royal Decorations.

Dayton, Ohio.—Following a sinking spell that developed soon after midnight, Wilbur Wright, the noted aviator, died of typhoid fever at 3.15 Thursday morning. Wright had been lingering on the border for many days and his condition from time to time gave some hopes to members of his family that he would recover.

When the noted patient succumbed he was surrounded by the members of his family, which included his aged father, Bishop Milton Wright, Miss Catherine Wright, Orville, the co-inventor of the aeroplane; Reuchlin Wright and Lorin Wright.

Put Blame On Fish.

The noted patient was seized with typhoid May 4, while on a business trip in the East. On that day he returned to Dayton from Boston and consulted Dr. Franklin, the family physician. He took to his bed almost immediately and it was several days before his case was definitely diagnosed as typhoid. Throughout the early part of his illness Wright attributed his sickness to some fish that he had eaten at a Boston hotel. He explained to his physician, however, that he had no particular reason to believe that the disease originated from this source.

Started As Printers.

The Wright brothers, Wilbur and Orville, in their younger days were printers. They were of an inventive turn of mind, and when they were little boys they always were working on some device. They always worked together in harmony.

While youngsters on the farm near Dayton, Ohio, the boys once had a contract to fold and prepare papers for mailing. The paper was published in the interest of a church. After folding two or three editions by hand they grew tired of this and set their heads to work. The result was a mysterious mass of strings and rollers. It was necessary only to put the papers in and turn a crank and they came out folded better than it could be done by hand. This machine did the same work in a few hours that had occupied them as many days working by hand.

They afterward were engaged in repairing bicycles. They had a shop, and, in addition to tinkering with bicycles, they made improvements for them. They had several men working under them. They devoted considerable time to the problem of flying machines at this period and made many experiments. They made the engine for use in the machine themselves.

Their Capital Small.

The boys had no large amount of capital. All they accomplished was without financial aid and by their own energy and pluck.

They invented the first practical flying machine and risked their lives in proving it. After flying for a time they quit and devoted their time to making money out of their inventions. Wilbur Wright figured out the chances of life and death in practically every kind of a flight. A few minutes' conversation with him would convince anyone that he had worked out with the keenness of a gambler the chances of success or failure. He would tell you that in flying over a city an aviator had one chance in 40 or 50 to win success by keeping his motor running. Should the motor stop there is no hope of cutting across the skyscrapers. In flights across lakes or the British Channel Wright said there is one chance in 40 of being killed. He disapproved speed contests, realizing that there were greater chances of mishaps than in any other sort of flying.

SOLDIER KILLS SCHOOLGIRL.

Gets Her Out Of Classroom By a Ruse and Makes Attack.

Phillipsburg, N. J.—Annie Lynch, a schoolgirl 13 years old, was attacked and killed near her home here by Frank Brown, a former private in the United States Army. Brown shot himself, but many recover. Brown went to the school, where the Lynch girl was a pupil, and told the principal that Annie's mother had sent for her. He hid in an alley not far away and attacked the girl as she passed. She escaped after a struggle and was shot while running. She fell dead on her father's doorstep, two blocks away.

WOMAN ENDS LONG WALK.

Mrs. Beach Reaches Chicago From New York In 42 Days.

Chicago.—Mrs. David Beach completed a journey on foot from New York to Chicago and gave to Mayor Harrison a message which she received from Mayor Gaynor. During the long walk, which consumed a little more than 42 days, Mrs. Beach subsisted on uncooked food of a vegetarian nature.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Run & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"The volume of business continues to expand, as is evidenced by the statistics of bank clearings and railroad earnings. The situation during the past week has been improved by the much better weather, which has served to increase the retail, and to some extent, the wholesale distribution of merchandise. There has been some lull in new demands for iron and steel, but a considerable tonnage is in prospect and price advances are made more easily. In many lines production is now on a heavier scale than last month, the larger plants operating to capacity and orders booked will keep the mills busy for several months to come. Specifications indicate that the bulk of material is going into consumption and a scarcity is developing in basic materials."

Bradstreet's says:

"With the advent of warm, dry and, in some sections, sunshiny weather, the agricultural situation has seen a marked change for the better and final distribution at retail, in the cities at least, has been quickened, though the pre-occupation of farmers in their field work has prevented much expansion in country trade."

SYNOPSIS.

Garrett Coast, a young man of New York City, meets Douglas Blackstock, who invites him to a card party. He accepts, although he dislikes Blackstock, the reason being that both are in love with Katherine Thaxter. Coast fails to convince her that Blackstock is unworthy of her friendship. At the party Coast meets two named Dundas and Van Tuyl. There is a quarrel, and Blackstock shoots Van Tuyl dead. Coast struggles to wrest the weapon from him thus the police discover them. Coast is arrested for murder. He is convicted, but as he begins his sentence, Dundas names Blackstock as the murderer and kills himself. Coast becomes free, but Blackstock has married Katherine Thaxter and fled. Coast purchases a yacht and while sailing sees a man thrown from a distant boat. He rescues the fellow who is named Appleyard. They arrive at a lonely island, known as No Man's Land. Coast starts out to explore the place and comes upon some deserted buildings. He discovers a man dead. Upon going further and approaching a house he sees Katherine Thaxter, who explains that her husband, under the name of Black, has bought the island. He is blind, a wireless operator and has a station there. Coast informs her that her husband murdered Van Tuyl. Coast sees Blackstock and some Chinamen carrying a man. They fire at him, but he is rescued by Appleyard who gets him to the Echo in safety, and there he reveals that he is a secret service man and has been watching the crowd on the island, suspecting they are criminals. Coast is anxious to fathom the mysteries of No Man's Land, and is determined to save Katherine. Appleyard believes that Black and his gang make a shield of the wireless station to conduct a smuggling business. Coast penetrates to the lair of Blackstock's disguise. Katherine enters the room and passes him a note which tells Coast that neither his life or her own are safe. Coast feels that Blackstock suspects him. Appleyard and the Echo disappear. Coast assures Katherine of his protection, and she informs him that they are to abandon the island immediately. The blind man and his coolie servant overpower Coast, who afterward escapes and is met by Katherine, wishing to flee. They discover a yawl but before they can reach it the coolie disables the craft. Black appears and tauntingly states that he is no longer blind. He is overpowered, and Coast and Katherine fly from the spot, and go to a remote part of the island and signal a boat which they see in the distance. Appleyard and the Echo appear.

Coast, as prompt to take alarm, had instantaneously imitated her action. Wheeling, weapon poised, he discovered the shadowed shape of a man running toward them—or, rather, staggering, for he seemed badly winded—leaping and reeling through the undulations of the low, formless dunes, whose soft and yielding substance had deadened the sound of his approach until he was almost upon the two.

At Katherine's call he flung up one hand as if to signify a peaceful intent, but came on at unabated speed.

"Don't shoot!" he pleaded hoarsely. "I'm unarmed—"

Both knew that voice too well. The woman's figure straightened to rigidity. "Stop!" she repeated, imperative, inflexible. "Stop, Douglas, or—"

Coast threw out a hand and deflected the muzzle of her weapon. "Don't," he said aside; "if it comes to that, let me attend to him! . . . Blackstock!" he cried curtly. "Stand where you are!"

At this the man pulled up at a distance of a few feet, within the radius of lantern light. "Steady!" he begged between gasps. "I've . . . beaten 'em out. . . . Plenty of time . . ."

"What's your game now?" demanded Coast coldly, his attention distracted by the comforting sound of dipping oars and squealing rowlocks behind him.

"Game!" The man's eyes caught a curious glint of light from the lantern as they shifted swiftly, glancing sidelong. "Game!" he iterated in broken and hollow tones. "I'm in no shape for games now! For God's sake don't be hard on me. I've come to give myself up—to surrender."

His announcement fell like a thunderclap. Momentarily Coast discredited his sense of hearing. "Surrender?" he muttered, incredulous. "You?" He cast a quick, cautious look round. There was no one else within the limits of his vision—not a figure nor a moving shadow. His gaze returned to the huge, quaking shape before them: Blackstock in a panic, trembling with fear and exhaustion, his plump face turned a pasty, unwholesome shade and largely blotched with dull, burning red, eyes like knots showing too much white and rolling restlessly, loose mouth a-quiver, hands shaking, breath coming and going with a sound resembling the exhaust of a skipping motor. "The devil!" said Coast to himself; and aloud in accents hard and unrelenting: "You'd best explain . . .?"

With a sudden movement, the woman touched his arm.

"Don't trust him, Garrett!" she exclaimed. "You don't know him—don't, don't trust him!"

"I've no intention—" Coast began.

Incontinently they were treated to the incongruous spectacle of Blackstock on his knees, humbling himself first to the woman, then to the man he had wronged, fat, mottled, tremulous hands imploring them. "No!" he prayed, coarsely pitiful. "Don't say it! Have a little pity! My God! don't you know I'm dying?" Don't leave me here to die like a dog, in the name of mercy!"

"Dying . . ." Coast repeated, while Katherine bent forward, peering steadily into the man's face. "What d'you mean by 'dying?'"

"Don't you understand—can't you see?" The plump, spotted hands fumbled at his throat; for the first time Coast remarked that it was bandaged, and began to comprehend what frightful fear was bringing the man to his feet. "That damn' dog," Blackstock breathed convulsively—"he's done for me, if I don't get help—medical help—quick. He's torn my throat to tatters," he whispered; "I'm poisoned, poisoned! If you leave me here, I'll go mad and die mad—hydrophobia! Good God, have pity!"

He broke down completely for a moment or two, whining and blubbering and wringing his hands. It was plain that he was badly frightened, and not without reason.

Coast glanced at Katherine; she wore a face of doubt mirroring his own perplexity, but when she caught his eye upon her, responded with a nod and a shrug.

"I think we'll have to . . ." he said, tentative.

"Of course," she answerd listlessly.

"Look here, Blackstock!" At Coast's sharp and frigid address, the man quieted abruptly, and apparently coming to a realization of the spectacle he was making of himself, got slowly and shame-facedly to his feet. "If we agree to take you off the island, you know what it means? I'll turn you over to the police, first place we stop."

"I don't care," Blackstock asserted eagerly. "I don't care a damn. I'll go anywhere, do anything—go to the chair, if I have to—work out my life in the pen—anything but stay here and go mad. I've been a cur, I know, but for the love of God don't leave me to die like one—"

"Hel-lo!" Behind the trio the keel of a rowboat grated on the sand, and Appleyard jumped briskly ashore, trotting up, painter in hand. "What's this?" he demanded briskly. "Hello, Coast! Madam, your servant. . . . Now, what's the row?"

He put himself in the center of the group, bright watchful eyes diagnosing one expression after another on the countenances round him; with something in his pose and manner singularly suggestive of an exceptionally intelligent and inquisitive magpie.

Coast dropped a hand affectionately on his shoulder. "Thank heaven, you're here at last," he said. "And here's your prisoner—take him in the name of the law and for the sake of peace. He's been badly bitten first by a dog and then by fright, and he wants to give himself up and be sent to a hospital."

"Oh, that's it, eh? I heard a bit of the confab while rowing in, and it listened uncommon' interestin'; but I couldn't figure out what was at the bottom of it all. Well, well, Mr. Blackstock!" The little man rubbed his hands. "I'm glad to come up with you. This is more fun than a goat, for sure. Come!" He jerked his perky little head toward the tender. "Jump in, and I'll hurry you to market."

A sullen look replaced the terror that had masked Blackstock's face. He sighed and with a brief, uncertain nod, apparently directed at Coast, collected himself and trudged heavily toward the boat, entering which he squatted silently in the stern.

Appleyard's eyes sought Coast's. The younger man lifted his shoulders, disclaiming honor or responsibility. "When the devil was sick," he quoted in disgust, lowering his tone. "Keep an eye on him."

"Well, rawther," Appleyard drawled.

"But he won't try any monkeyshines aboard the Echo—or I never saw a man afraid of his sins before. . . . Madam," he added, turning with a curious little courtly bow to the woman, "if you'll step in"—his glance traveled past her down the beach—"we'll beat that pack to the mainland. I see," he said, "they're launching a long-boat. What kind of a yarn explains that, please?"

Coast recounted with exceptional brevity the wrecking of the schooner, at the same time stepping into the boat and placing himself at the oars, on the middle seat. Katherine sat forward, behind him, and Appleyard, pushing off, scrambled aft and dropped down beside Blackstock, who sulkily moved to one side to make room for him.

"Look lively, Mr. Coast," the little man advised pleasantly. "We really haven't got a minute to spare—those chaps are laying to their oars as if they really wanted to scrape acquaintance with us. Or perhaps," he suggested with a look askance at Blackstock, "my cheerful prisoner can account for this apparent mad anxiety of theirs to bid their dis—, I mean extinguished leader a fond farewell."

Blackstock, fumbling nervously at his bandaged throat, made no answer. Coast, bending all his strength to the oars, drove the dory swiftly toward the Echo.

"Blackstock," said Appleyard, ironic, "what you got in that neat little bag between your feet? The conventional pyjamas and toothbrush, what?"

The tormented man at his side grumbled something inarticulate.

"Did I understand you to imply it's none of my business? How extraordinarily rude, Mr. Blackstock! Besides being untrue—quite a naughty fib. In addition to which it's uncalled for; I know."

"You know?" Blackstock turned to him with a scowl.

"Sure. I can put two and a millstone together and make a hole in a ladder just as easy as take a silk purse out of a souse's ear. It wouldn't be you, Mr. Blackstock," Appleyard continued without giving his victim time to analyze this astonishing statement—"it just wouldn't be you if you didn't try to hand your friends the double-cross. That bag's stuffed with loot—the best part of the truck they were running this trip—jewelry, for a dollar. And that's why, you see, they're so infatuated with the idea of shaking your hand and wringing your neck before you get away; they've just discovered your perfidy. But don't you fret. Here we are and long before they can drive that seine-boat this far we'll be sailing merrily away."

Drove the Dory Swiftly Toward the Echo.

The Test of Sixty.

What about the hour when you find yourself in the 60s, an old man—far, far worse, an old woman? To have to consider yourself "out of it," as regards all the most interesting affairs of life; to realize that you have had your day and ceased to be, as a necessity or a power, or a treasure of the world; that your place is on the shelf, with old-fashioned, worn out, discarded things; that you have eaten your cake to the dry crumbs and can expect no more—nothing but to grow daily feebler and uglier and more obsolete and superfluous, declining to that death which at least is inescapable—what an awful pass to come to! It is the time when the society queen, her prestige and beauty gone, retires to a convent; when religion, whatever the patterns of it may be, is called upon to justify itself once and for all. In those popular oleographs which depict Faith as a woman clinging to a cross in a raging sea, the figure should have been that of an old hag and not a fair young girl, for it is when all else fails that the church offers itself as the last, only, and sufficient buttress against despair.—Atlantic.

MARINES MAY GUARD MINES

Conditions at Daiquiri, Cuba, Continue Bad.

IRON MINES MAY CLOSE DOWN

The 1,200 Men Thrown Out Of Work Might Be Drawn Into the Revolutionary Ranks — The Steel Works May Be Affected.

Washington.—State Department officials are somewhat disturbed at the impending closure of the big mines at Daiquiri, which would throw about 1,500 men out of work. These unemployed laborers might easily be drawn into the revolutionary ranks. It is also apprehended that a corresponding number of skilled workmen may be affected in the steel works in this country which derive their ore from the Cuban mines.

An explanation of why Captain Davis, of the Paducah, did not land marines at Daiquiri was received in a cablegram at the State Department from the American Consul at Santiago. It stated that the Cuban government had established a permanent garrison of 85 men at Daiquiri, where the Spanish-American mining properties are located. That force is probably sufficient for the present to defend the place against the insurgents. The Paducah is still at Daiquiri and may land marines to guard the mines.

Want 10,000 Rifles.

The Cuban Minister, Senor Rivero, called at the State Department to secure permission for the purchase of 10,000 stands of rifles to arm the volunteer corps now being raised in Cuba by the government, and to enable the plantation owners to arm their employes and organize into guards to protect their property against pillage by the insurgents. The request will be granted and the War Department will have an opportunity to advantageously dispose of a quantity of the discarded Krag-Jorgensen rifles. Some of these weapons were sent to Cuba about two years ago.

With an American gunboat stationed on each side of the Eastern end of Cuba prepared to land forces at a moment's notice and ready to hasten to the nearest point where foreign interests may be threatened by the insurrectionists in Oriente, it is believed here that there is now not so much danger of molestation of American-owned plantations and mining properties.

Authorized To Land.

But as the Cuban government has been informed by the State Department, American naval commanders have been fully authorized to land parties of marines and bluejackets whenever there are no Cuban government forces to guard exposed plantations or mining properties which may be threatened by the insurrectos.

60,000 MEN TO PARADE.

Unveiling Of Columbus Memorial In Washington.

Washington.—Sixty thousand men will march in the pageant to follow the unveiling of the National Memorial to Christopher Columbus here June 8. Legions of Knights of Columbus from all over the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and even from the Philippines will participate. The statue at the gate of the national capital, the Union Station plaza, was erected with a $100,000 appropriation by Congress.

Secretary Knox will preside at the unveiling, and addresses will be made by President Taft and Justice Victor J. Dowling, of the Supreme Court of New York. The Italian ambassador, Marquis Cusani Confalonieri, will unveil the memorial. President Taft, Justices of the Supreme Court and members of the Diplomatic Corps will attend a banquet in the evening.

STUDENT BURGLARS.

They Force An Entrance Into a Book Store.

Wooster, O.—Arrested here on charges of burglary and larceny, Forester Tope, son of a Cleveland business man, and Arthur Jones and Walter Snyder, sons of missionaries in India, all of them students in the preparatory department at Wooster University, pleaded guilty and were sentenced to serve time in the Canton (O.) Workhouse. Tope was given 60 days and Jones and Snyder 90 days each. The boys forced an entrance into the book exchange and college store at the university.

$100,000 FIRE; CIGARETTES.

Boys Smoking In Stable Cause Loss Of Business Section.

Youngstown, Ohio.—The entire business section of Sandy Lake, Pa., was destroyed by fire, the loss being estimated at $100,000. Among the property destroyed was two large hotels. Fire engines from Stoneboro and Franklin were rushed to the scene. Boys smoking cigarettes in a livery stable are said to have caused the fire.

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
ISSUED WEEKLY.

S. W. SMITH, . . . Editor and Proprietor

CENTRE HALL, . . . PENN'A.

THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1912

CHURCH APPOINTMENTS.

Presbyterian—Centre Hall, morning; Spring Mills, afternoon.

Reformed—Spring Mills, morning; Union, afternoon; Centre Hall, evening.

Lutheran—Centre Hall, morning; Spring Mills, afternoon; Tusseyville, evening.

The state ought to be appealed to by the citizens of Penns Valley to build its roads—both the Lewisburg turnpike and Lewistown turnpike.

If Guffey does not hold more than the tickets of admission to the convention at Baltimore, the country is safe. He has held much more than tickets heretofore.

In Pittsburg the citizens are complaining because the press has been muzzled, and in Centre Hall there is a bit of grunting because the local paper isn't wearing a collar.

Both the factions of the Republican party want to line up the rooters at the Chicago convention. T. R. knows the value of the gallery gods, for he expects to perform stunts that will only be effective if the gods take up the howl! The rooter is Teddy's stock in trade.

Because the Reporter opposes the granting of a franchise for light and power is no reason why some of the councilmen should persist in doing their utmost to get the measure through council. It is small business to "lick Smith and the Reporter" with taxes forced from the people. This paper was instrumental in showing the snake in the first franchise ordinance presented, and why should it (the Reporter) be hated instead of the snake. If the Reporter is to be licked by passing vicious legislation, the licking goes much farther—it reaches every taxable dollar within the barough limits.

The best argument—an argument that ought to be conclusive—that the borough council should not now grant an electric light and power franchise is that it is acknowledged on all sides that the borough cannot afford to light its streets with electricity even if it had an opportunity to do so. To grant a franchise under such conditions reflects on the intelligence of the councilmen, and will make Centre Hall appear an easy mark for crooks. It is absurd for the council to engage in the franchise granting business at a time when it is unable to put the franchise into operation. Regardless of what others say, this statement remains the truth.

LOCALS.

J. D. Murray's condition continues about the same.

On Tuesday Sheriff Lee took Scott Lose to the Danville asylum.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. E. M. Huyett, Saturday afternoon.

Miss Bertha McCormick is able to be about again after an illness of two weeks or more.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Kerr are in Williamsport, where Mrs. Stephen Lobaugh is entertaining them. The ladies are sisters.

Saturday afternoon E. M. Huyett went to Reading, and Monday he and Mrs. Huyett and daughter Miriam returned home. Miss Leila is continuing her vacation.

The roof over a portion of the Reformed church was altered with a view of changing the water shed, and making it possible to avoid back-water during the winter months when the valleys are filled with snow and ice.

Hon. William Allison, and daughter Miss Mabel Allison, of Spring Mills, Mrs. Lillie Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Meyer, of Centre Hall, attended the summer opening of the Fair Brook Country Club, at Pennsylvania Furnace, on Tuesday. The trip was made in Mr. Allison's touring car.

Rev. W. J. Arney has moved from Pottsgrove to West End, Erie county, where, with his son-in-law, Mr. Farnsworth, he is interested in trucking and growing grapes. Rev. Arney was actively engaged in the ministry until last month, at which time his resignation took effect. He is a son of the late Jacob Arney, and, of course, is well known in and about Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Finkle, of Muncy, came to the Centre Hall hotel on Tuesday, traveling in a Ford five-passenger car. Mr. Finkle is a son of Samuel Finkle, of Belleville, and learned the milling business at Spring Mills, where he met his wife, nee Miss McCool. A few weeks ago Mr. Finkle sold his interest in the Finkle-Ring milling plant at Muncy, and now he and Mrs. Finkle are undecided what they will engage in. In the meantime they are taking a trip over the country, and then will again return to Muncy to settle up with the many customers of the mill.

For Parent's Reflection.

Parents who are prone to cling to the old-fashioned idea that diseases common to childhood are matters of fact, and that "you can't stop them" should reflectively observe the report of the deaths in Pennsylvania during March, as made by the bureau of vital statistics of the state department of health. Measles caused ninety-five deaths that month and whooping cough seventy-five, not a large proportion to the number of children afflicted with these diseases, it is true; but the number is sufficiently large to make any parent pause. Scarlet fever, commonly regarded as much more dangerous than the two mentioned, killed fifty-five; diphtheria, the dread of all, claimed 147 victims. Most of the deaths in these four classes were children. The proportion of deaths to births in March was higher than usual, as 10,472 persons died in Pennsylvania and 17,917 were born.

From Millmont.

Dear Mr. Smith:

Enclosed find one dollar to renew my subscription to the Reporter until 1913. We cannot do without the Reporter; it comes like a letter from home each week. Spring crops were planted late in this county owing to the weather. Some farmers, in low lands, did not get any oats sowed at all, and now since the rains ceased the ground is so hard that it cannot be plowed. Wheat and grass fields look promising.

Very truly,
A. C. LEITZELL.

Misses Esther and Hattie Kaup spent several days at Bellefonte at the home of their sister Mrs. John Fisher.

The festival on the evening of Memorial day was enjoyed by people from far and near. Seventy dollars were cleared for the street lighting fund.

A memorial sermon was preached on Sunday morning in the Reformed church by Rev. Stover. His remarks were based on a passage recorded in Revelation, "And there was war in heaven." He spoke of the horrors of war, and yet it is some times necessary to bring about a certain end. He gave a few statistics of the civil war: about one million were slain and the expenses reached as high as two and a half million dollars a day. During the last year more than 40,000 had answered the last roll call. The service was well attended. Five veterans were present: Joseph Hettinger, John Hook, James Poorman, George Kaup and Israel Young.

Memorial Day was cloudy in the morning but preparations were made to celebrate the day in a becoming manner. The flag on the public square was raised and the business places and most of the private residences were beautifully decorated with the national colors. Promptly at twelve o'clock all the bells in town were rung for five minutes. By five o'clock the sun was shining. At six o'clock the parade formed at the diamond and marched to the cemetery. Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, orator for the evening, with Rev. S. C. Stover were first, next the veterans (but nine in number) then the Boy Scouts, next the Boalsburg band, then followed the children marching two by two, each carrying a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Dale delivered a very interesting historical address. The band rendered some patriotic selections. After the exercises the veterans and children decorated the graves of the soldiers. The veterans placed a wreath on each grave and the children strewed the flowers. There were thirty-four graves decorated.

BROWNING'S "SORDELLO."

Mystery of That "Colossal Derelict on the Ocean of Poetry."

The impenetrable nature of Robert Browning's "Sordello," published in 1840, "a colossal derelict on the ocean of poetry," as William Sharp terms it, has been the theme of many anecdotes. Tennyson declared, writes Lilian Whiting in "The Brownings—Their Life and Art," that there were only two lines in it—the opening and the closing ones—which he understood, and "they are both lies," he feelingly added.

Douglas Jerrold tackled it when he was just recovering from an illness and despairingly set down his inability to comprehend it to the probability that his mind was impaired by disease, and, thrusting the book into the hands of his wife, he entreated her to read it at once. He watched her breathlessly, and when she exclaimed, "I don't know what this means; it is gibberish," Jerrold exclaimed, "Thank God, I am not an idiot."

A French critic, Odysse Barot, quotes a passage where the poet says, "God gave man two faculties," and adds, "I wish while he was about it God had supplied another—namely, the power of understanding Mr. Browning." Mrs. Carlyle declared that she read "Sordello" attentively twice, but was unable to discover whether the title referred to "a man, a city or a tree."

Hair Falling?

You certainly cannot lose your hair and keep it, too. Which shall it be? Lose? Then do nothing. Keep? Then use Ayer's Hair Vigor. That is about all there is to it. Ayer's Hair Vigor is also a splendid hair-dressing and hair-tonic. It keeps the hair soft and smooth and greatly promotes its growth. It does not color the hair. Consult your doctor freely. Doctors are studying these hair questions much more than in former days.

Sunbury.—Civil War veterans here have decided that they will decorate the graves of several Confederate soldiers buried in the local cemeteries. They are bodies of men who came here after the war and settled.

Mauch Chunk.—The constables of Carbon county have been notified by the State to be on the lookout for stray dogs and to shoot those running at large in towns where a quarantine had been placed.

Catasauqua.—While the family was away a thief entered the residence of Myron E. George, at Ballietsville, and got about one hundred dollars' worth of plunder in clothing, jewelry, provisions and cash.

Lancaster.—The second annual encampment of boy scouts will be held near Pequea, along the Susquehanna River, and about a thousand boys are expected to attend from all parts of the State.

Hamburg.—John H. Coote, who had a hearing for selling adulterated cider, as charged by Robert M. Simmers, pure food agent, entered bail for court, saying that he did not know the cider was impure.

Allentown.—David Leipensberger, a Civil War veteran, who fought in the Forty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, as a member of General Sheridan's army, died of debility. He was seventy-six years old.

Alburtis.—It is said on good authority that the Lockbridge furnaces near here, which have been idle for some time, will resume operations shortly, when the eighty former employes will find work.

Oley.—The consistories of the Spies' Union Church decided to get the remnants of their old church bell that was saved last Winter when the church was destroyed by fire, to be cast into a new bell.

Mauch Chunk.—The seventeenth annual jubilee of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Mauch Chunk Young Men's Christian Association was held in the parlors of the association. Covers were laid for forty-three members.

Lehighton.—Neighbors found Al Christman, of this place, wedged between a bench and a tree dead, the supposition being that the man, after falling into a doze on the bench, fell off and was suffocated. He was fifty years old.

Lenhartsville.—John Shock, a rural free delivery mail carrier, was confronted in the middle of the road by a monster rattlesnake which showed fight. He fought the reptile with stones and a fence rail, and when the battle was over found that he had killed a seven-foot rattlesnake with twelve rattles, weighing twenty-eight pounds.

Lehighton.—B. M. Shull was elected supervising principal of the public schools; O. C. Klinger, principal, and C. A. Wagner, assistant principal. The board increased the salaries of some of the teachers.

South Bethlehem.—Mrs. Julia Krawada, of this place, made two attempts at suicide by drowning. She first waded into the Lehigh River and was in water up to her neck, when James Martin and Francis Grube got a boat and rescued her. On terra firma once more, she attempted to drown by leaping into the canal

VALUABLE MEMBER OF CINCINNATI TEAM

Marsans, the "Ty Cobb" of Cuba.

When those Cubans—Almeida and Marsans—came into the National league a lot of people were inclined to look on the deal that brought them as a sort of hippodrome stunt by Frank Bancroft to add interest to the Reds and bolster up battered gate receipts. Time has proven otherwise, for both won places on real merit as ball players. True, Almeida has been shunted to the minors, but it was because of indifferent disposition and not for lack of ability. He hit over .300 in the few games Clark Griffith permitted him to play last year and proved a valuable utility man. Marsans did not hit so hard. Perhaps he was not as good a ball player as Almeida, but he showed more earnestness in his work and that counts. Today there is no more valued member of the Red team. His full opportunity has not come yet, because there is small chance to break in when a combination is winning, but many a good man sits on the bench. Marsans is one of the fastest men in baseball. In his own land he was called the Ty Cobb of Cuba. When a runner is needed in a Red game Marsans gets the assignment. Marsans came to the States about six years ago and played on semi-pro teams in the east. He finally landed in organized ball and the Reds got him from New Britain of the Connecticut league. He is twenty-six years old, slight of build, but active as a cat and like most of the Cubans has a wonderful throwing arm. Most catchers watch him closely.

the hot corner, a position unsuitable to the nervous temperament of the speedy Buffalo boy who first gained prominence through his clever work at second base for the Bradford, Pa., club.

Likes Eccentric Players.

The average man in charge of a ball team tries to steer clear of eccentric ball players, but there is one exception to this rule, Joe Cantillon. It is questionable if there was ever a team which numbered among its members as many individuals who, in the parlance of the game, are called "bugs" as are to be found on Cantillon's Minneapolis team this season. Waddell, Altizer and Ferris are but three of his players who are, to say the least, peculiar, but there are others, including Rossman, once a star with the Tigers. Cantillon seems to delight in gathering about him this class of players and, peculiarly enough, he seems to have made up another winning combination in this way.

Perdue Is Great Pitcher.

Hub Perdue of the Boston Nationals is the season's sensation in the box. His work stamps him as a great pitching artist.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND

Manager Dahlen denies that he has any immediate intention of releasing Outfielder James.

George Stone says he will retire to his farm and that he is done with base ball for good.

Pitcher Vic Schlitzer, who has been a holdout on Indianapolis, has decided to think better of it.

Frank Laporte's slump in batting is said to be due to the blow he got in the eye from a ball.

Joseph A. Bessey, who caught for New York in the late 60's, died recently in San Francisco.

The United States league has an umpire named Callem, which is appropriate to say the least.

New York has released Pitcher Harold Cann of Toledo and Outfielder Benny Kauff to Rochester.

President Somers of the Naps denies that he has any intentions of calling in Chapman from Toledo.

Walter Johnson, having tried out his slow ball and seen the result, will go back to speeding them over.

Some one has doped out that second base is the only position that has not developed a major league manager.

Pitcher Jack Pfeister is back in the Association in another uniform Chicago having sold him to Milwaukee.

Probably the reason Cincinnati is now playing good ball is that the players have run out of hard luck excuses.

No need to worry about the Athletics. This time last year their percentage was given lower than it is at present.

W. J. McGinnis, who was an umpire in the Mink league last season, holds an indicator in the Kansas league this season.

Billy Sullivan's shoulder, hurt in the early season in a game with the Browns, has healed and he is ready for duty.

Mike Grady, former Kansas City and St. Louis player, will play first base for Salina in the Kansas circuit this season.

The Reds may be a huge joke, but so were the Baltimores in 1894—for a while the joke sometimes is on the other fellow.

Bob Ganley may have a weak arm and all that but he recently hit a homer with the bases full for Atlanta and that helped some.

In signing with Baltimore, Harry Steinfeldt will no doubt end his career with the same club with which he first attracted attention as a ball player.

Christy Mathewson drew what is said to be his first fine since he entered the game recently at New York. It was $5 for discoloring a ball and the umpire had no other recourse under the rules.

BEST HITTING TEAMS

Championship Pennants Won by Good, Hard Slugging.

Batting Counts More In Long Run Than Team Work, Base Running or Inside Play—Some Few Exceptions to the Rule.

Batting is what wins pennants in spite of the fact that now and then some fan or baseball expert will argue that team work or base running or inside play is the factor that counts more than base hits in the winning of games. The claim is frequently made that the best batting team often finishes behind teams in the pennant race that are not noted for their prowess with the bat.

Their argument has been good a few times, but in the majority of cases the club that leads the league in batting also wins the blue ribbon. It can't be denied that the team that makes the most hits gets the chances to steal the most bases and otherwise takes chances that the weak batting teams cannot.

There are, of course, exceptions to the role. The Athletics, winners of the American League pennant last season, led all the other teams with a club batting average of .294 per cent. The Giants, prospective winners of the National League race, led the league with an average of .271 per cent.

In 1910 the Giants batted some seven points better than Chicago, yet the Cubs won the pennant. On the other hand, the Athletics won out and led in batting also. In 1909 the batting leaders in the big leagues were Detroit and Pittsburg, both champions. In 1908 Detroit had the best batting outfit in the America and won the bunting, but New York led the Chicago pennant winners at the bat.

Detroit led both ways in 1907, but the champion Cubs were third by four points in the National League batting list. Back in 1906 the Naps carried off the batting honors by a big margin, while the White Sox, who took off the championship, were absolutely last as hitters, the Naps finishing third. The Cubs, however, led in victories and batting that season, only to lose the world's series to the hitless wonders.

In 1905 the Athletics, second to the Naps in batting, won the pennant and then lost the series to the Giants, who had led the National League batters.

This resume shows that in the last six years four American League pennant winners have also led the league in batting, while in the National League three pennat winners have also been batting leaders, the champions twice being the runners-up in hitting.

ECONOMICAL SOUL WAS THIS

Hebrew's Attempt to Save Fare Probably Went Astray, but the Idea Was a Brilliant One.

Arthur W. Marks of Washington tells this story to illustrate the talent of the Hebrew race for economy.

A little Hebrew got on a train in New York to go to Philadelphia, but had no ticket. In the car with him were the members of several theatrical companies and he noticed that, when the conductor asked them for their tickets they would reply:

"Company."

"What company?" the conductor would ask; and the actors would reply by announcing the title of the theatrical company under whose name all their transportation had been paid for.

"Give me your ticket," the conductor finally reached the Hebrew.

"Comp'ny," said the little fellow, looking carelessly out of the window.

"What company?" asked the conductor.

Said the Hebrew: "The Pittsburgh Cloding company."—Popular Magazine.

DIFFERENT NOW.

Since the Slugger, Coffee, Was Abandoned.

Coffee probably causes more biliousness and so-called malaria than any one other thing—even bad climate. (Tea is just as harmful as coffee because it contains caffeine, the drug in coffee).

A Ft. Worth man says:

"I have always been of a bilious temperament, subject to malaria and up to one year ago a perfect slave to coffee. At times I would be covered with boils and full of malarial poison, was very nervous and had swimming in the head.

"I don't know how it happened, but I finally became convinced that my sickness was due to the use of coffee, and a little less than a year ago I stopped coffee and began drinking Postum.

"From that time I have not had a boil, not had malaria at all, have gained 15 pounds good solid weight and know beyond all doubt this is due to the use of Postum in place of coffee, as I have taken no medicine at all.

"Postum has certainly made healthy, red blood for me in place of the blood that coffee drinking impoverished and made unhealthy." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum makes red blood.

"WHY SHOULD I USE CUTICURA SOAP?"

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

FARM AND BEES

COMFORT IN HOUSE-APIARIES

Especially Adapted to Out Yards, Having All Facilities for Proper Care of Bees.

(By F. G. HERMAN.)

I regard house-apiaries as especially adapted to out yards, having all the facilities for properly caring for bees in themselves, the year around, and without increased cost over open yards.

I keep part of my bees in a house made for the purpose, and I am ready to endorse all that has been said about the superior comfort of handling bees in house-apiaries. When I open one of these hives the bees do not fly up with the same alacrity that bees do from the hives that stand in the sunshine.

The house contains twenty colonies of bees in two tiers of hives. The broad side of the house which is in view faces eastward, and the end southward; there are no hives facing the other two directions.

The hives in this house are known by the name, "Long Idea." They hold crosswise, twenty Langstreth frames each. They are expressly used for extracting honey.

One row of hives is set on a frame just high enough for me to be able to raise the covers, and look into them comfortably, and the other row rests on the floor. I might add that the hives are only one story, so there is no use for queen-excluders, and no tiering to be done.

There are no bees at large in the house, excepting a few which leave while handling the combs, and these quickly make their escape by way of the windows, which are left open all summer for ventilation. The netting on the windows is so arranged that the bees can leave the room, but cannot enter it.

The awning over the windows is to prevent the rain from coming in while the windows are left open. The hive-entrances match the corresponding slots in the sides of the house, and when the bees enter the slot, or entrance, they go directly to their respective hives.

Each alternate entrance is painted a dark color; this is for the purpose of helping the bees to mark their right hive.

PROVIDING SHELTER FOR HAY

Practical Method for Protecting Top of the Stack From Inclemencies of Weather.

There are many farmers who provide shelter for their hay in the following manner: Posts from twelve to sixteen feet high are set into the ground at corners and along sides of a parallelogram, says the Iowa Homestead. Then two-by-fours are nailed around tops of posts and they are boxed down two or three feet and a roof is put on as a covering. The hay is then ricked beneath the roof, which completely protects the top of stack from the rain. The hay is sometimes carried to its place by means of a hay fork that runs on track secured to roof.

Good Hay Shelter.

A Garden Pond.

A garden pond is sometimes a thing of beauty, and it is certainly a thing of joy to the birds all summer long, but it brings the mosquitoes. A dozen gold fish placed in the water will take care of most of the mosquitoes, and they will add to the attractiveness of the pond. A border of well-selected stones next to the water and just outside of them a few aquatic plants will also help. Very often frogs are attracted to these little ponds and will help the fish to take care of the mosquitoes, and sometimes they become quite tame and make their winter bed in the mud and are ready to greet us in the spring with their songs—if you like to call them that.

Sweet Corn and Melons.

Sweet corn and melons should not be cultivated too deeply. The roots grow near the surface, and merely stirring the soil sufficiently to create a dust mulch is all the plant requires.

HOW TO PREPARE WHITEWASH

Nothing That Can Compare With It for Outside or Inside Work. Retains Brilliancy.

A formula for whitewash prepared by the United States department of agriculture is as follows:

Take half a bushel of unslaked lime; slake it with warm water and cover during the process to keep in the steam; strain the liquid through a fine sieve or strainer; add a peck of salt previously well dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste, and stir in boiling hot one-half pound of powdered Spanish whiting and one pound of glue which has been previously dissolved over a slow fire. Then add five gallons of hot water to the mixture, stir well and let it stand for a few days, covered up from the dirt. It should be put on hot.

One pint of the mixture will cover a square yard, properly applied. Small brushes are best. There is nothing that can compare with it for outside or inside work, and it retains its brilliancy for years. Coloring matter may be put in and made of any shade, Spanish brown, yellow ochre, or common clay.

LATCH FOR SWINGING GATE

Excellent Device, Needed on All Farms, May Be Made by Following Directions Given.

A good latch for farm gates may be made as shown in the accompanying sketch. The slide A is suspended by the hangers BB, which are placed on each side of the gate. The back end of the latch works between the guides C and the front end between the end pieces of the gate. The slide engages with a slot in the gate post when the gate is shut.

The hangers BB are made in any convenient length. The holes are ¼ inch in diameter and tire bolts are used as fasteners. The holes for the hangers should be drilled one-third of the width of the latch from its top to make the largest part of the weight fall below the fastenings of the supports, writes Willard H. Elder in the Swinging Gate Latch.

Popular Mechanics. The slide being in a horizontal position, it works better between the guides. When the slide is in the gatepost slot, the hangers should be at the angle shown, so that the weight of the slide helps to hold it in place.

PACKING HONEY IN CARTONS

Inexpensive Covering Serves to Protect Comb From Dust and Prevents Marring in Handling.

The best grades of comb honey should be put on the market in neatly printed cartons. They are a great convenience for the dealer, they serve to keep honey free from dust, and also prevent marring the delicate comb when handling from the grocery to the consumer's kitchen.

Cartons are so inexpensive, and so useful, that it is surprising that more of the best comb honey is not put on the market in them.

Of course, those using cartons should be very careful to see that only the most perfect sections of honey are put into them. A honey-purchaser will seldom buy cartoned honey the second time if she has been once deceived—by getting, for instance, a partly filled comb in a carton; or, perhaps, a dirty-looking comb.

Cartons should be used more extensively than they are now, as they also furnish an added opportunity to send printed honey-information with each comb of honey sold.

BEES AND FARM NOTES

A thin layer of dust serves as a mulch as does straw.

For heavy sod ground the improved disk harrow is much the best.

The operation of harrowing is next in importance to that of plowing.

Clover seed is a profitable crop on land that is well fitted for its culture.

A clover sod turned down makes an excellent foundation for a corn crop.

The cowpea is an annual, and a soil as a renovator it is probably without a peer.

Good seed corn is one of the most important factors in producing a good yield.

No man can tell whether corn will grow or not without making a germination test.

Training tomatoes on wires to run from five to ten feet high is becoming a common practice.

If wood ashes are applied to the potato crop it produces conditions favorable to potato scab.

In corn-growing territory cowpeas are mostly grown with corn, sowing broadcast or otherwise.

The clover seed crop depends very largely upon the condition of the ground and the weather.

Kaffir kernel ranks close to corn as a food, as shown by the analysis of the proximate constituents.

Stirring the soil to the depth of but a few inches will create such a mulch and will help to conserve the rainfall.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

To Preserve Historic Building.

A movement has been started in Frankfort, Ky., to preserve the "little red brick" building on the old State House square on account of its historic interest. The building now standing is 98 years old, and Daniel Boone, on the occasion of visits to Frankfort after it was erected, visited the offices on business. In two years the building will be 100 years old, if left standing, and is the oldest state building in existence.

Repartee Off the Stage.

In the big Weber-Fields dressing room Joe Weber and George Beban sat tense over a game of checkers. "I'm working him up to his part," murmured Mr. Weber, in a kind voice. "He must go on the stage in a tantrum in a few minutes. Every night I beat him a game of checkers in here before his entrance. It has just the right effect on him." "Every night you don't beat me!" cried his opponent. "owe you $1.90 in 12 weeks. Is that much?" "Not so much, but I'd be glad to get it," suggested the sweet-voiced Weber.

Mrs. D. W. Bradford returned home on Monday from Bedford to which place she accompanied her husband last week. Encouraged by the fine crop of apples grown last year, John C. Rossman again sprayed his orchard both for scale and twice for insects and diseases attacking the fruit. The work was done by former Sheriff Brungart, with an outfit owned by him. The Rossman orchard was also sprayed last year by Mr. Brungart, and the fruit was so much better than on trees not sprayed that there is now no question in his mind as to the efficiency of the spray pump from a point of quality of fruit or dollars and cents.

NEW DEPARTURE.

Selling Medicines at Half Price Under Guarantee of Cure.

After two months of remarkable sales, Murray & Bitner, the enterprising druggist, says that their plan of selling at half price the regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, and guaranteeing to refund the money if it does not cure, has been the greatest success they have ever known.

Anyone suffering with dyspepsia, constipation, liver troubles, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, or the general tired feeling, caused by inactive liver and bowels or disordered digestion, should take advantage of Murray & Bitners new departure and buy a bottle of Dr. Howard's specific at half price, with their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

Haying tools. None with the same merit offered at as low a price. It is merit that counts, but we combine cheapness and merit.—J. H. and S. E. Weber, Centre Hall and Oak Hall Station.
